The Feast of All Saints, and All Saints' Sunday, November 7

All Saints' Day always falls on November 1. From All Hallows' Eve we get Halloween, October 31, the day before All Saints' Day. On All Saints' Day, we celebrate all the holy saints of God, known and unknown. Because the well-known saints are on our church calendar, and they have feast days of their own, All Saints' Day is especially for those who otherwise would go uncelebrated, those anonymous, silent, humble, holy people of God living in our midst who are the very salt of the earth. So that we may celebrate All Saints' Day with the greatest number of people, we celebrate it on the Sunday following All Saints' Day, which this year falls on November 7.

To be holy means to belong to God. How may we belong to God? Aren't we already his? Well, yes, we are; but nevertheless, growth in holiness for most of us consists in surrendering ourselves more and more over the years to the God who made us; and we can only surrender ourselves as we are enabled to by the power of the Holy Spirit operating in us by God's grace given by Jesus Christ.

Though death separates us from those who no longer live in this world, in Christ we are united forever. All Saints' Day celebrates the triumph of Christ as he claims all who belong to him, living and dead, throughout the world and forever.

If you have loved ones or friends who have died in the past year that you would like us to remember in prayer on Sunday, November 7 at our 10:00 a.m. service, please give their names to me or John Harvey, and we will put them on our prayer list for All Saints' Sunday, November 7.

Diocesan Day of Prayer, October 23, 2021

As I write this, we don't have a full plan for how to keep the Diocesan Day of Prayer on Saturday, October 23. I do recommend beginning with the service of Morning Prayer led by Canon Jody Howard and Bishop John at online by way of Facebook at facebook.com/episcopaldioceseofTennessee. If no other plans are announced in the next few days, everyone could choose a thirty minute period of time that Saturday to devote to prayer for 1) the needs and mission of our congregation, 2) the needs of our community; or 3) important matters concerning peace in the world, or care for creation, or people experiencing governmental instability or oppression.

Giving to Grace Church

To make a contribution to Grace Church, you may put a check in one of the offering plates at the front and back of the church; or you may send your offering in the mail to the office; or you may make a contribution online through our website or by scanning the computer code below into your smartphone.

If you have particular needs for prayer or other ministrations of the Church, please contact me, the office, or the senior warden.
